VERMONT NEWS.

Government Work in Vermont. The chief of engineers at Washington has considerable to say in his annual report regarding harbor projects in Vermont. The engineers estimate that $4,300 will be required to complete the existing project in the channel between North and South Hero Islands, Lake Champlain, and they ask that congress appropriate that amount at the session this winter. With this money it is proposed to widen and deepen the channel. the only appropriation ever made for this work was $10,000 in 1888, which provided for dredging a channel 150 feet wide and 10 feet deep. The engineers of the army also ask that the approaching congress appropriate $3 000 towards the project, adopted in 1872, for making a channel 100 feet wide and eight feet deep in Otter Creek, from Lake Champlain to Vergennes and for a basin at the atter point. It is estimated that the ost of completing this project will be $11,248, the government having already votes $17,500 this coming year for the improvement to the Narrows of Lake Champlain, between New York and Vermont, the army engineers believe they can complete the project with this sum.

Divorced and Bemarried.

A Burlington dispatch of Nov. 6, to the New York Sun says: Mrs. Laura L. Labell, who secured a divorce from Peter Labell nineteen days ago with $500 alimony and the custody of her minor children, was married yesterday to ber former husband, the ceremony taking place at the Catholic church at Essex Junction. In the trial for divorce Mrs. Labell charged that Mr. Labell was cruel to her. This bedenied, saying she had a bad temper. The suit was the bitterest ever contested in this county and a divorce was granted the petitioner on Oct. 18. Yesterday afternoon the couple came together. Mrs. Labell paid her lawyers $100, settled her board bill of $75 and gave Mr. Labell the balance of her alimony, $325. Later they drove to Essex Junction where they were married and now the family is reunited at their old home just outside of the village of Essex Junction.

The first carload of apples that has been shipped out of Barre for years left over the Montpolier and Wells River R. R. It was bought by H. W. Whitney of Boston. These apples were collected in the country around Barre by Mr. Whitney assisted by M. W. Scribner, they traveling about 100 miles to get them. It is thought that they stripped the country clean. This is a rather remarkable thing when it is considered that practically all the apples consumed in that city are brought there from points elsewhere. Rev. Thomas H. Mitchell, pastor of he Presbyterian church, Barre, began his sixth year of service there Sunday morning, Nov. 3. The occasion was made more notable by the addition of 20 new members to the communion of the church. Last Monday evening all the members of the church and congregation were invited to a reunion.

Increasing the Navy.

Should Congress authorize the 40 new vessels recommended by the naval board on construction, the strength of the United States navy would be as follows: Twenty first-class battleships, ranging one second-class battleship of 6,315 tons. Ten armored cruisers, of from 8 200 to 14,500 tons each.

Twenty four protected cruisers, ranging in size from 3,000 to 9,600 tons. Two of these cruisers, the Columbia and the Minneapolis, have triple screws and are designed as scout ships.

Three unprotected cruisers, of 2,089 tons each, and eight converted cruisers. Nine double-turreted monitors and six single-turreted monitors (old). Eighty gunboats. A large number of these vessels are small ones, captured and some are converted boats. Six composite gunboats. Thirty-six torpedo-boats, sixteen torpedo-boat destroyers, eight submarine torpedo-boats of the Holland type, one harbor defense ram and one dynamite gun vessel. The foregoing constitute the fighting orce of the navy. Other vessels would be eighteen colliers, four supply ships, one repair ship, one refrigerating vessel, two distilling ships, one tank ship, one transport, one hospital ship, fourteen training vessels, four picket boats, (small), two despatch boats, forty-three tugs, four receiving ships, seven sailing vessels and ten obsolete and unserviceable ships.

Mir Wilfred is Hopeful.

Speaking before an important gatherng of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at Montreal, Thursday, Sir Wilfred Laurier, the premier, said that Canada would not send any more delegations do Washington in the future to negotiate reciprocity, but he expected that the time was coming when Washington would send delegates to Ottawa instead. Continuing he said: Three years ago I was in the city of Washington, and it was my privilege there to meet the great manufacturer and philanthropist, Andrew Carnegie. Talking of many topics which interest manufacturers, and also interest public men, he went on to say these words:

"The trade of Great Britain in iron is a thing of the past. We will capture the trade of England on every point in competition. I said: "Mr. Carnegie, you know these things better than I do; it is quite possible that you may capture the trade of England in iron; but let me tell you this, when you have captured the trade of England in iron, we Canadians will capture the trade from you"; and it is my expectation that at some time not very distant the works at Sidney will indeed not only compete with England, but capture the iron trade of the whole world. And in so saying I do not think I am too sanguine at all

Cavalry for South Africa.

Apart from the Franco-Turkish quesion, the meetings of the British cabinet have been chiefly devoted to South Africa, and to drawing up plans for more strenuous efforts to end the campaign. Big Fire in Portland.

Fire on Commercial street, Portland, on the morning of Nov. 5, destroyed the big wholesale grocery store of Milliken, Tomliuson Co., causing a loss estimated at nearly a quarter of a million of dollars. Many nearby buildings caught fire from flying sparks and at one time it looked as if the entire section of the city would become a prey of the flames. Among the other buildings burned were the American stone Company's sheds and a large stable owned by the Clark Ice Co. Twelve horses in the stable were burned. Several dwellings were also destroved.

This report is a clear vindication of the administration of Pension Commissioner Henry Clay Evans. During a recent visit to the White House, General Torrence informed President Roosevelt of the subin size from 10,288 to 16 000 tons and stance of his report, which was very gratifying to the president. On the strength of this statement by the commander-in-chief, the president requested Commissioner Evans to retain the commissionership, which he agreed to do.

Nearly $1,000,000 worth of American equipment, machinery, etc., has just been ordered by the South Porto Rico Sugar Co. of New York city for installation in its Porto Rico plantation. The city of London was blanketed Monday, Nov. 4, with the worst fog the metropolis has seen in years. All traffic was interrupted, and hundreds of thousands of suburban people were lost in an attempt to find their way to the rail road stations. The railroad trains themselves were stalled by the thick vapor. In Trafalgar square and around the cles were massed in inextricable confuran about with torches and lanterns as in the olden times.

The amount of money in circulation in the United States on Nov. 1 was $2 246,-300,542, which exceeded by $107,119,-130 the amount in circulation one year Based on an estimated population of 78,211.000 the circulation would average $28.72 for each man, woman and child in the United States. The general stock of money in the United States, not counting the gold and silver in the treasury, against which certificates have been issued, is $2.543,597,491, being $132,874,973 more than on Nov. 1, Traits of the Maine Guide.

The typical Maine guide is just as much product of the soil as are the mighty rests, and his replica is not to be found elsewhere. They are, of course, all human and differ in temperament. One may be nervous and excitable, another reserved and deliberate; a third, patient and forbearing, and a fourth, quick tempered and unreasonable; but, as a class, good guides are to a manstrong, willing, friendly and ever on the lookout to see that their "sporter" has the best there is to be got. They are good friends and, sometimes bitter enemies, for their sense of justice is keen and they are ready to retaliate for a just and, sometimes, a fancied grievance. The majority are sober and honest, if one accepts the latterqualification by making allowances for the fairy tales which they are wont to spin for the entertainment of their city guests, the presentation to Gen. Baden-Powell, and, often, they have told these over and the defender of Mafeking, of the sword of over until they really believe them. Proonor sent from Australia, the secretary's fanity is not a rule among them, although cepted as the decision reached by the conversation on fitting occasions. With scarcely an exception they know their recent suggestions that the Boers should | place and keep it, seldom mistaking kindness for familiarity or imagining that they are the sportsman and the sportsman the guide. They do not expect to be put on a basis of familiarity. They realize that the men they guide come from a world of which they know little, yet they are seldom envious. They only ask eniusula, contemplates the removal of to be treated like men, nothing more.

Guiding is a business with them, devoid of all the frills the uninitiated enthusiast might attach, and, taken season in and season out, it is about as hard work as one would wish to undertake. To tramp long miles carrying a heavy pack or an eighty-pound canoe over a rough trail, to paddle from morning until night, to be ever at the call of some one who is in the woods for enjoyment, and then to end the day by getting supper, chopping wood for the night, buildng a lean to and boughing down the beds is no easy or unimportant task. It ever a class of men carned the r money airly and squarely it is the guides who are working for $2.50 and $3 a day .-Herbert L. Fillson, in Outing.

LESSON THOUGHTS.

"The first step toward bringing men to Christ is to make sure that you know the way to Christ. The next step is to find the way to other men. No one can be a real Christian without eing a real missionary.

You would not now be a Christian i the spirit of missions had not sent some one to preach the word that you might hear; others must remain without Christ ment, considering the distance and the if you in turn fail to obey the missionary
